NOTICE.

We have hear from Zanzibar about two hundred and forty of the new geese arrived a few days since on board the "Improved Queen," and we take this opportunity of manifesting our satisfaction to the proprietors of the "Improved Queen," who are to have a fine lot of new, and other of the same kind of geese, being to be advertised for sale.

The new geese are said to be the best breed of the kind, and are a great improvement on the old stock. They are said to be very hardy, and to thrive on a very small amount of food.

The proprietors of the "Improved Queen" are to be congratulated on their success, and we hope they will continue to breed more of this fine breed.

The new geese have been well looked after, and are in a fine condition.

CANDIDATE FOR THE GALLOWS.

It is not often that a prisoner under sentence of death is permitted to have visitors. This was the case in the case of Acebe, who was tried and sentenced to death for the murder of his mother, at a court held at Algeciras, in the province of Cádiz. The prisoner was brought in chains to the court, and was accompanied by a group of relatives and friends, who were granted permission to visit him for the first time in more than a year.

Ah, the thought of the approaching death sentence weighed heavily on Acebe's mind. He was under the conviction that he was innocent of the crime, and that the sentence was a result of political pressure from his enemies.

The trial had lasted for several months, and Acebe had been in prison ever since. He had always maintained his innocence, and had hoped that the truth would eventually come to light. However, the evidence against him had been overpowering, and the jury had found him guilty.

As the day of execution drew near, Acebe's spirits sank. He knew that he would soon be face to face with death, and that there was no escape from the fate that awaited him.

"I have never done anything wrong," he said, "and I am not a political criminal. This is all a mistake."

But it was too late for appeals or reprieves. The sentence was final, and Acebe was to be executed on the morrow. He was taken to the place of execution, and was placed in a cell, where he was to spend his last hours.

The next morning, the hour of execution arrived. Acebe was led to the place of execution, where he was seated on a chair, with his head shaved and his hands bound. The death sentence was pronounced, and Acebe was shot.

His body was then taken to a nearby morgue, where it was to be prepared for burial. Acebe's last words were, "I am innocent, and I am going to heaven."

This was the end of Acebe's story, but it is a reminder of the horrors of the death penalty, and the need for reform in the criminal justice system.
